

December 8, 2023

4-6.30 p.m. (CET)

Online here on MS Teams

This link will open the meeting in your browser or the MS Teams application, if you have it. You don't need to have it installed in order to join the meeting; you can do so using your browser.

Young Researchers in Transnational American Studies

Aiko Takeuchi-Demirci

Koc University, Istanbul, Turkey

A Transnational History of Eugenic Theories over Race Mixing

Vanessa Evans

Appalachian State University, Boone, NC, U.S.A.

Other language, other landscapes, other stories:
Reading Resurgence in the Contemporary Indigenous Novel

Mahshid Mayar

University of Mannheim, Germany

Empire is Trans-National: Erasure, Archive, Poetry

Ahngeli Shivam

University of Mainz, Germany

The Transpacific: Life Narratives Across Media

Sabine Kim

Glasgow, U.K.

Transnational Perspectives on Extraction and the Indigenous Land Back Movement

02 | Journal Editing at JTAS

Please join us for the second event of our Career Talk Series Young Researchers in Transnational American Studies.

On December 8, 2023, we will hear from five researchers who dedicate part of their work time to editing the Journal of Transnational American Studies (JTAS). JTAS has two editorial homes – one at Stanford University and the other at JGU's Obama Institute – and the team behind it works from all over the world.

Next to presentations of their current projects, we will also discuss aspects of screening submissions, finding reviewers, copy editing, and preparing galley proofs for publication on the eScholarship platform of California. The symposium will also include the way in which this editorial work aids in building a professional academic career.

Professor Alfred Hornung will host this event. If you have further questions about the event, please contact him at hornung@uni-mainz.de.